Rejuvenate the spirit and awaken the heart through the Dances of Universal Peace. The Dances of Universal Peace have reawakened a form of sacred circle dancing which includes singing by the dancers themselves. The dances originated in San Francisco in 1967 through Murshid Samuel L. Lewis, who was inspired by his teacher, Hazrat Inayat Khan and by modern dance pioneer Ruth St. Dennis. They have spread all over the world. These Dances create a nurturing, therapeutic, educational, personal growth-oriented, and ecumenical atmosphere. The sharing of sound and movement acts as a cosmic glue to create, sustain, and heal the community and the individual. Join us for a time of peace, reflection, and joy.

Tui Wilschinsky has been joyously leading the Dances of Universal Peace and facilitating heart opening events for over 33 years. He began at the Lama Foundation, and then travelled with Ram Dass. At present, he leads the Sebastopol Sufi community. He is an Expressive Arts educator and consultant, a senior mentor of the Dances of Universal Peace, and a teacher within the Ruhaniat Sufi tradition. Tui has an M.A. Humanistic/Transpersonal Psychology and is finalizing a PhD. at the California Institute for Integral Studies. His postgraduate work has been in the fields of psychopharmacology, communal living, deep ecology, cinema, and mathematics. He has taught at many Bay area universities and colleges, and at Waldorf schools. He travels widely and seeks to gently subvert the dominant paradigm.

"Tui is a delightful presence bringing awareness and light to every encounter." - Deborah J. Cohen

"With a twinkle in his eye, Tui has an incredible capacity to bring people to a very deep place." -Rabbi Jack Gabriel
