

Many Mansions: Yeshua's Last Teachings

With Sufi teacher Murshid Saadi

Neil Douglas-Klotz, Ph.D.

May 14-16, 2010

Columbus, Ohio

Our yearly workshop with the Aramaic Jesus will focus on his last talk with his disciples, as reported in the Gospel of John. In this talk, Yeshua reinforces the main themes of his teaching and promises to "prepare a place" for his disciples as he journeys home.

In this workshop we will explore these teachings in their Aramaic sense, use the practices Yeshua mentions to center as well as contemplative prayer, body prayer, meditation, and Dances of Universal Peace. In addition, we will share Dance and body prayer from most of his "I Am" sayings in the Gospel of John, and compare these sayings to his teaching in the Gospel of Thomas.

This retreat is open to all, without prior experience. Only an open heart and mind, ready to move and dance with the One, are necessary.

There are no organized home stays in Columbus for those who have stayed in local homes in years past. If you have stayed in someone's home in previous years and wish to personally contact them, you are free to do this. However, please understand that no one will be asked by the organizers to provide free housing this year. Unfortunately we have too few homes for too many requests and have had some unfortunate circumstances to deal with in providing home hospitality.

Transportation to Martin de Porres Center

At the first evening of the event we will make an announcement to try to link those in the hotels without cars with others who have cars and are willing to provide transportation. The motels are approximately a mile from the workshop site.
